

It is my belief that the deregulation of the broadcasting industry has lead to far more harm than good. After several years of free reign, Clear Channel has gobbled up station upon station and built a veritable monopoly which is damaging to the music industry as a whole. It's time to look at revising these laws to bring competition back into the marketplace so the quality of broadcasting will stop falling.